

Aymon E. Langlois

Education

Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, New York
Bachelor of Arts Magna Cum Laude with Honor in English, 2023

Grade Point Average: 3.83

Honors: Periclean Honors Forum; Dean's List Honors (Fall 2019, Spring 2020, Fall 2020; Spring 2021)

Relevant Coursework: Senior Project in Disability and Gender; Independent Study in Disability, Race and Gender; Independent Study in Disability and Reproductive Rights; Disability in Contemporary America; Disability Narratives; Disability and American Literature; Disability Aesthetics

Work and Service Experience

2024- Assistant Director, Office of Accessibility Services, Worcester Polytechnic Institute
2023- Advisor, Office of Equity and Social Justice
2020-2023 Commissioner, Americans with Disabilities Act Commission, Skidmore College
2021-2023 Student Representative, Department of English, Skidmore College
2021-2022 Research Assistant, Department of English, Skidmore College
2020-2021 Tutor, Philip Boshoff Writing Center, Skidmore College

Publications

Books

Langlois, Aymon E. Ugly Feet, OCD, and Other Intimations of Resistance: A Narrative Suite on Disability and Masculinity. Anxiety Press (2024).

- Longlisted for publication by JAKE: The Anti-Literary Magazine

Essays

Langlois, Aymon E. "Running Against the Wind: Disabled Masculinity and the Vicious Cycle of Sport." JAKE: The Anti-Literary Magazine (2023).

———. "Covert Aestheticism: Disability and 'Narrative Prosthesis' in Stevenson's The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde." Wordgathering: A Journal of Disability Poetry and Literature 15.2 (2021).

Speaking Engagements

Presentations

March 2022 “Towards a More Social Social Model: Reconceptualising the Accessible,” Northeast Modern Language Association, Baltimore, Maryland.

Readings

Nov. 2023 “Selections from ‘Running Against the Wind,’” JAKE & HAD in Boston, Brandeis University.

Panels and Roundtables

May 2023 Creative Writing Panel, Academic Festival, Skidmore College.

Oct. 2021 “In Conversation with Alice Wong: An Evening Dedicated to Storytelling and the Imagination,” Skidmore College.

Awards

2023 Rodney D. Andrews Prize, Skidmore College

2021 Joseph C. Palamountain, Jr. Prose Award, Skidmore College

2020 Distinguished Writing Award for the Essay, Department of English,
Skidmore College

Professional Association Membership

2022-2023 Northeast Modern Language Association

2021- Society for Disability Studies